COVID-19 update: Stay-at-home orders in place for some regions; existing CDPH guidance for schools remains in place

In a Dec. 7 morning press conference, Gov. Gavin Newsom announced that the state's 14-day test positivity rate is 8.4 percent and continues to rise, and there has been a 69 percent increase in hospitalized COVID-19 patients over the same time frame. Two regions, Southern California and San Joaquin Valley, have ICU capacities that have fallen below the 15 percent capacity and thus triggered stay-at-home orders for those regions. As reported last week by CSBA, the new orders do not change existing guidance for schools from the California Public Health Department. Despite this, some counties are taking further precautions in consultation with local health departments. Los Angeles County school campuses will shut down completely beginning Thursday, Dec. 10. In-person tutoring and some special education services have been performed with precautions on campuses.

As of Monday, ICU regional capacity was: Bay Area – 25.7 percent; Greater Sacramento – 20.3 percent; Northern California – 28.2 percent; San Joaquin Valley – 6.3 percent; Southern California – 10.9 percent.

In other COVID-19 developments:

- CDC shortens COVID-19 quarantine recommendations: The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued new guidance for people who have been in close contact with those diagnosed with COVID-19. The guidance states the quarantine can end after day 10 if no symptoms have been reported from daily monitoring; quarantine can end after day seven if a diagnostic test comes back negative for COVID-19 and if no symptoms were reported during daily monitoring. The specimen may be collected and tested within 48 hours before the time of planned discontinuation of quarantine, but quarantine cannot be discontinued earlier than after day seven. Federal health officials said the ideal quarantine period is still 14 days.
- GAO report finds schools have struggled to serve students with disabilities and English learners during pandemic: In accordance with the CARES Act, the Government Accountability Office published a report outlining the challenges schools faced when providing distance learning to ELs and students with disabilities. GAO researchers reviewed distance learning plans from 15 school districts with high proportions of either students with disabilities or EL students, and interviewed advocates, researchers and national education organizations. The researchers found that the most significant challenges facing EL students and students with disabilities include a lack of necessary technology, language barriers and providing for basic family needs.

Legislative update: New session begins with a number of bills addressing broadband access

The California Legislature rang in the 2021–22 session in socially distanced style on Monday, Dec. 7, swearing in members and announcing priorities for the coming year. Senators and Assemblymembers wasted no time in introducing 185 new pieces of legislation for consideration when they return in January 2021, including a number of notable education proposals covering the reopening of schools during the COVID-19 crisis, expanding broadband access, early learning programs and funding for school facilities. Four bills introduced indicate the Legislature will make broadband access a priority, reflecting CSBA's consistent advocacy for universal broadband since the earliest days of the COVID-19 pandemic. ## CSBA's 2020 virtual Annual Education Conference by the numbers

The first virtual 2020 Annual Education Conference from Dec. 3–4 had more than 2,000 attendees joining a total of 45 sessions, which were available twice. These 45 sessions — covering Advocacy and Community Engagement; Equity, Opportunity and Accountability; Funding, Finance and Facilities; Innovation and Student Achievement; Leadership Through Governance; and Wellness, School Climate and Safety — generated almost 29,000 views from board members, administrators, superintendents and executive assistants. Three inspiring and informative General Session Speakers — Jason Dorsey, president of the Center for Generational Kinetics; Hadi Partovi, CEO of the education nonprofit Code.org, tech entrepreneur and investor; and Leslie Odom Jr., multifaceted Tony and Grammy Award-winning performer — over two days made for one incredible experience.

The end of CSBA's annual conference also marks the ascension of new association officers. CSBA welcomes 2021 CSBA President Suzanne Kitchens from Pleasant Valley School District in Ventura County, CSBA President-elect Susan Heredia from Natomas USD in Sacramento County and CSBA Vice President Susan Markarian from Pacific Union Elementary School District in Fresno County. ## Court finds plaintiff may still recover for violation of public bidding requirements after completion of school construction contract

On Nov. 24, 2020, a California appellate court held in Davis v. Fresno Unified School District that the plaintiff's claim that a contract for school construction violated public bidding requirements was not moot after construction was completed, because the plaintiff could still recover by having the contractor pay back to the district the profits they received to build the middle school. The case has been remanded to the lower court for further proceedings.

The case originated in 2012, when the plaintiff, who was also a building contractor, successfully sued the school district and building contractor, alleging they entered into a $36.7 million lease-leaseback construction contract in violation of California's competitive bidding requirements. After a series of judgments and appeals, the trial court held in 2019 that the case was moot because the middle school was already completed. The decision on Nov. 24 found that the case could continue as relief was still available through the contractor refunding or "disgorging" profits earned under the contract, and is a reminder to districts and contractors of the importance of properly executing the procedures required of construction contracts.
