COVID-19 update: CDE enrollment data show sharp one-year decline for the 2020–21 academic year

The California Department of Education on April 22 released official enrollment data for the 2020–21 academic year that showed a sharp one-year decline of 2.6 percent statewide — a decrease of more than 160,000 students. The annual snapshot spotlighted several trends, including a particularly drastic drop in enrollment among early grades.

Eighty-eight percent of the statewide drop in enrollment from the prior year occurred in grades K-6, with the largest grade-level decreases in enrollment data found in kindergarten and in grade six. Kindergarten alone accounted for more than a third of the statewide decline.

A deeper dive of racial and ethnic enrollment data from 2019–20 to 2020–21 shows that the total enrollment of African American students declined 0.1 percentage point (5.3 to 5.2); the percentage of Asian students increased 0.2 percentage points (9.3 to 9.5); Hispanic/Latino student enrollment increased 0.4 percentage points (54.9 to 55.3); and the percentage of white students decreased 0.7 percentage points (22.4 to 21.7).

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Tony Thurmond said the CDE will redouble its efforts to work with school leaders to gain a deeper understanding of the reasons behind the drop, while helping districts bolster effective student and family engagement strategies in the weeks and months ahead. Under state law enacted during the pandemic, school districts will not experience a decline in revenues due to 2020–21 enrollment figures. In other COVID-19 developments:

- The U.S. Department of Education announced on April 23 plans to distribute $800 million to help support the needs of students experiencing homelessness. California is expected to receive close to $99 million total under the American Rescue Plan Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief – Homeless Children and Youth fund, with an April allocation of nearly $25 million. There is an urgent need to use this funding to identify homeless children and youth, provide wraparound services in light of the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, and provide assistance to enable homeless children and youth to attend school and participate fully in school activities, including in-person instruction this spring and upcoming summer programs. - Early analyses suggest that English learners have been disproportionately impacted by implementation of distance learning during the pandemic, particularly in the critical early grades. Given these disparities, districts must provide additional supports to ensure English learners have equitable access to the curriculum, including in the STEM subjects. A new CSBA governance brief explores key characteristics of quality learning of mathematics and science for English learners; a range of options for supporting English learners in hybrid and online learning environments; questions governing board members can ask to encourage these teacher practices and systemic coherence and more. CSBA kicks off extended learning webinar series

After a year of disrupted learning due to COVID-19, public education will never be the same — nor should it be. CSBA opened its two-part webinar series exploring strategies, investments and best practices to help guide schools as they prepare for summer school and for extended learning initiatives with an examination of successful summer programs. Due to the impact of the pandemic, “we know that there are going to be a high amount of student needs as we begin to return to the classroom,” said CSBA Director of Research and Education Policy Development Mary Briggs. “Getting back to what used to be normal isn’t going to be quite good enough anymore so we’re thinking about the ways that we can welcome our students back to school in a way that is safe and addresses all of the challenges they have faced so they’re ready to learn.” Read more on the CSBA blog »

The second webinar, “Extending Learning: Governance for Developing Effective Learning Recovery Plans,” will take place May 4 at 11 a.m. and feature panelists including Orange Unified School District Assistant Superintendent of business services David Rivera and Kelsey Krausen, senior engagement manager with the Comprehensive School Assistance Program at WestEd discussing the California Department of Education’s Extended Learning Opportunities Grants and ways to get the most from the grant allocation. Register now | Watch the first webinar

General Fund revenues $16.7 billion ahead of expectations

The California Department of Finance announced on April 23 that General Fund revenues are $16.7 billion ahead of what the department expected the state would have through March. K-12 schools and community colleges are guaranteed roughly 40 percent of general fund revenues. Gov. Gavin Newsom and lawmakers will likely have more to allocate to various support programs and sectors most impacted by the pandemic, but the Legislative Analyst’s Office also noted last week that California is running close to a rarely invoked 1979 appropriations limit. The Gann Limit, as it is known, requires that any revenues beyond the appropriations limit must be split between tax refunds and education spending. However, budget writers could avert some of those requirements through several maneuvers, including sending more money to local governments or lowering taxes, according to the LAO.

Sample Mental Health Awareness Month resolution available

Each year millions of Americans face the reality of living with a mental illness — a challenge that has been exponentially exacerbated by the isolation and extreme stress many have dealt with in the past year as a result of the pandemic and precautions taken to slow the spread of the virus. The good news is that, although more children have had more adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) since March 2020, ACEs can be prevented and quick intervention can mitigate long-term impacts on students' long term physical and mental health. CSBA has provided a sample resolution that districts can adopt proclaiming the month of May as Mental Health Awareness Month and expressing support of students and staff challenged by mental illness. Find copies of the resolution as a PDF or Word file, as well as other sample resolutions »

Judge certifies class-action status, Reyes v. State of California

By order of a Superior Court in Sacramento County, class certification has been granted to a group of nonclassroom-based charter schools and individual students to represent all 308 California nonclassroom-based charter schools in a lawsuit challenging the state's nonclassroom-based charter school funding for the 2020–21 school year, which the plaintiffs allege violate the Charter Schools Act and the California Constitution.

At issue are Education Code sections 43502 and 43505, added by Senate Bill 98 and amended by SB 820. The laws kept school funding statewide at the 2019–20 student average daily attendance levels to ensure stable funding for school districts and charter schools during the COVID-19 pandemic. The plaintiffs claim that with their growing enrollment in the 2020–21 school year, their newly enrolled students, for whom they will not receive state funding, will have to be accommodated with funding meant for their existing students. Plaintiffs also allege that their financial conditions are made worse by the state's deferral of up to 36 percent of payments due to them in the 2020–21 school year into the next school year.

In this class action, the plaintiffs are seeking a declaratory judgment against the state for violating the California Constitution, a permanent injunction prohibiting the implementation of affected provisions, and issuance of writ compelling the state to fund the charter schools for the 2020–21 school year without the limits imposed by SB 98 and SB 820. Read more on the CSBA blog »
